Continuous Professional Development with Belmont School

There is overwhelming evidence for the positive effects of outdoor learning for children, adults, schools and communities. Belmont School actively encourages schools and settings to increase their outdoor and off-site learning opportunities. This is so much easier if you have a range of curriculum-linked activities up your sleeve and the confidence to deliver them in the outdoors.

Our programme of CPD offers bespoke training based on your requirements, INSET days, bespoke consultancy visits, and the opportunity to come and visit provision on and around our school site.

The curriculum should provide teachers with more time to be creative, learn outdoors and focus on children's development and their long-term assessment. All of the CPD options will clearly link to the National curriculum and Early Years Outcomes, enabling attendees to plan rich and high quality outdoor learning.

- Health and well-being
- Humanities
- Digital competence
- Mathematics and numeracy
- Problem solving, team building
- Risky play and challenging activities
- Literacy and communication
- Creativity and expressive arts
- Holistic learning
- Science and technology

What should I opt for?

Each CPD option will provide the theory and practical skills you need and the confidence to deliver curriculum-linked outdoor learning safely and will provide ideas for assessment in outdoor learning.

We offer Twilight sessions, 1/2 day and 1 day bespoke training to increase and re-vitalise your outdoor teaching skills.

Twilight sessions will provide an insight and introduction into a range of disciplines and skills interweaving the Curriculum into outdoor learning. They will be mainly practical sessions, where you will build your confidence in delivering activities with your client group. There will also be opportunities for skill-share and networking.
